Story time with adults is essential for the growth and development of every child, both at home and at school. Below are the texts that we will call upon to help aid discussion and understanding in different topics. Some of them will be explicitly taught to all children, others will be shared in small groups. Others will be available for research and broadening their interest. All of them are recommended and we encourage you to read these or any others with your child. Children who are filled with a love of reading
